

A Scottish Sea Safari with Glenapp Castle

Glenapp Castle is a beautiful baronial hotel tucked away on the breath-taking Ayrshire coast. Its extraordinary location makes it the ultimate spot for a magical sealife safari. The clear waters off the Ayrshire coast are teeming with marine life from thirty-foot-long basking sharks to dolphins, minke whales, and seals.

Ailsa Craig, the iconic volcanic plug, is now a wildlife sanctuary. Home to over 40,000 birds, including puffins, guillemots, gannets and razorbills and, with a summit at a height of 1,100 feet, it really is the perfect setting to discover the vast array of wildlife living in this spectacular Scottish home.

With breathtaking scenery like no other, this is a sealife adventure you wouldn't want to miss. Take a trip up to Scotland for World Wildlife Day, pack a delicious picnic and hop on Glenapp Castle's boat for the ultimate safari.
